

for your body type!

AN HOURGLASS SHAPE

Do: Accentuate curves with underwire bras and low, hip-hugging boyshorts which draw eyes to the belly. "Curvier women should show some cleavage and emphasize the waist," says Brudenell-Bruce.

Don't: Be afraid of thongs! If you've got the J.Lo booty—show it off!

Pink-and-black diamond top babydoll. $89, and matching panty, $36, bootyparlor.com

Hot pink demi-bra, $27, and matching thong, $10, jezebelusa.com

Victoria's Secret PINK cotton bra, $27, and boyshorts, $8, (800) 888-8200

BUSTLINE

try these

Light blue lace cami, $48, eberjay.com

BUSTY: Pam Anderson

Stacked star Pammy lives up to the title, showing off her famous décolletage in a corseted peasant dress with plenty of bust support!

IF YOU ARE FULL-FIGURED

Being full-figured doesn't mean you can't flash some sexy skin!

Do: Try a sexy babydoll nightie. "It works on all body types," says Brudenell-Bruce of lingerie company Spoylet. "The eye is drawn to the arms and legs—not your trouble spots—and that's slimming for every figure."

Don't: Wear lingerie that cuts into your curves and creates fleshy rolls. "That means the size is too small," explains Brudenell-Bruce.

try these

Lingerie top $38, lovetanjane.com

Fayreform pink lace bra, $80, figleaves.com

Lilac chemise, $48, felinausa.com

FULL-FIGURED: Mia Tyler

The plus-size model shows off her sexy legs and draws attention to her cleavage in a plunging, short nightie!

